Our Souls at Night by Kent Haruf
Published posthumously, this is the story of two widowed neighbors who ignore public opinion and spend their lonely nights together, creating a new beginning for their lives.
Thursday, November 17 and Saturday, November 19

The Association of Small Bombs by Karan Mahajan
Spanning 30 years, three countries and the lives of two extended families, this is a deeply moving exploration of a terrorist attack in Delhi.
Thursday, December 8 and Saturday, December 10

Fates and Furies by Lauren Groff*
This National Book Award nominee is a keenly observed portrait of a 24-year marriage. Showing both sides of the couple’s story, his fates and her furies are not at all what they initially seem. Author Lauren Groff will join Elaine on stage during this lecture.
Thursday, January 12 and Saturday, January 14

A Little Life by Hanya Yanagihara
An ambitious and extraordinary narrative of the complex and supportive relationships amongst friends and families, A Little Life delivers its stunning emotional truths in the context of major social and aesthetic issues in the 21st century. A National Book Award finalist and short-listed for the Man Booker Prize.
Thursday, February 16 and Saturday, February 18

The Swans of Fifth Avenue by Melanie Benjamin*
This delicious, gossipy non-fiction novel reveals the 1950-60s’ superficial world and inner lives of the elegant socialites who “swanned” in intimate friendships with Truman Capote. Author Melanie Benjamin will join Elaine on stage during this lecture.
Thursday, March 9 and Saturday, March 11

The Noise of Time by Julian Barnes
Barnes’ gripping fictionalized biography of composer Dmitri Shostakovich’s fraught personal and professional submission to Stalin’s regime explores the meaning of art and its place in society.
Thursday, April 6 and Saturday, April 8

All lectures are 10am at Artis—Naples.