Naples Philharmonic Youth Jazz Orchestra

Celebrating its fifth year in 2019-20, the Naples Philharmonic Youth Jazz Orchestra is an educational ensemble that has grown out of the success of the Naples Philharmonic Jazz Orchestra and the All That Jazz series. Led by Dan Miller, trumpeter for the Naples Philharmonic Jazz Orchestra, the Naples Philharmonic Youth Jazz Orchestra studies the repertoire and arrangements of jazz greats, such as Charlie Parker, Dizzy Gillespie, Horace Silver, Thelonious Monk and Art Blakey’s Jazz Messengers. Students also study jazz improvisation, small-group arranging and original jazz composition techniques.

Dan Miller grew up in the vibrant musical scene of Chicago during the 1980s. He attended the University of North Texas and moved to New York City in 1991. He has studied with Don Jacoby, Bobby Shew, John Haynie, Ed Treutel, Brad Goode, Nick Drozdoff and Barry Harris. He spent 11 years (1990-2000) as a member of the Harry Connick Jr. Orchestra, traveling the world and recording numerous albums and TV specials.

Dan has also toured internationally and recorded with Wynton Marsalis, Maynard Ferguson, Tom Jones and Woody Herman. He has also performed with the Lincoln Center Jazz Orchestra, the Lionel Hampton Orchestra, the Duke Ellington Orchestra, Curtis Fuller, Branford Marsalis, Randy Brecker, Frank Foster, Jon Hendricks, George Coleman, Charles McPherson, Benny Golson, Jimmy Heath, Tom Harrell, David “Fathead” Newman, Ira Sullivan, Bobby Shew and Jack McDuff.

Since 2005, he has split his time between New York City and Florida, and he is currently a member of the Naples Philharmonic Jazz Orchestra and the director of the Naples Philharmonic Youth Jazz Orchestra. Dan is a Yamaha clinician and performing artist and works with college bands, high school bands and private students nationwide. He is currently an artist-in-residence for the University of Central Florida’s School of Music in Orlando. For more information, please visit danmillerjazz.com.
As versatile as he is talented, Chuck Findley is an American session musician renowned among his peers. Most widely known as a trumpet player, he is also skilled with the flugelhorn, slide trumpet and trombone. In the words of celebrated session horn player and arranger Jerry Hey, “Chuck Findley can play anything.” Findley was a member on the band of The Tonight Show with Jay Leno from 1994 to 2001 and has played or recorded with the likes of B.B. King, Elton John, Miles Davis, George Harrison, Carole King and a slew of others.
